Morgenstern Says Jewish State Would Affect U. S. Jews

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

PONTIAC, Mich. — Addressing Temple Beth Jacob, at a ceremony which marked the burning of the mortgage, Dr. Julian Morgenstern, president of Hebrew Union College, declared that should Palestine be granted statehood, the status of American Jews would immediately change, as they would be classed as "foreigners" in the land of their birth.

Dr. Morgenstern pleaded against intense nationalism, declared that Judaism is universal and is the cradle of all religions and of true democracy and justice. Speaking on the topic "How to Achieve Jewish Unity," Dr. Morgenstern declared that Palestine is not the solution to the Jewish problem. He said he doubted that Jews in Palestine would ever be granted statehood and that the physical problem of transporting 2,500,000 Jews would prove an almost insurmountable task. He declared, however, that if the Peace Conference established a Jewish State he would pray for its success.

Bermuda Choice Is Deplored

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WASHINGTON—Groups concerned with aiding Jewish and other refugees from Nazi-occupied territories to find havens in Allied or neutral countries expressed disappointment this week at the announcement that the forthcoming Anglo-American refugee conference is to be held in Bermuda, instead of Ottawa, the site originally suggested by Secretary of State Cordell Hull in his note to the British Government.

These interested groups feel that the conference will be less subject to public pressure in Bermuda, since it will be difficult for delegations and reporters to go there, and also that the shift from Ottawa lessens the prospects for collaboration by the Canadian Government, since a meeting on Canadian soil might have encouraged the Dominion to receive refugees.

PERLEY COMES BACK TO STATE AS CHAPLAIN

The editor's chair,

I suppose you have noticed the articles appearing in The Post in the past month or so from rabbis throughout the country. These articles are contributed originally to The Post and are not reprinted from other publications, nor are they syndicated articles.

For a long time I have sought to build The Post to the point where it would be read widely enough by national Jewish leaders so that its columns would warrant contributions from people with something to say, who for want of a medium, usually let the fire burn on in their chest.

Why an Indiana Jewish paper, if not local, certainly of no wider interest than in the state itself, should fill this niche, I can't say, but I can tell you this, that no one other development in the years in which I have been in the Anglo-Jewish field has pleased me more.

I have known for several weeks that the Zionist Organization of America was seriously considering some sort of a registration of American Jewry to determine numerically the support for the Zionist cause. I haven't printed anything about this plan because it was told to me in confidence, but now that the Mizrahi Organization at its convention called upon the American Emergency Committee for Zionist Affairs to conduct such a referendum, I guess I can tell what I know.

Some proponents of the plan advocate charging 10 cents, others a quarter, and still others a dollar. The registration would entail considerable expense, which is one argument against the majority of local districts, who in a

Report Should Be Made 30 Days Before Election

LODGES IN the Indiana-Kentucky State Association of B'nai B'rith should protest vigorously against the system which would be set up for nomination of officers under the proposed revised constitution.

The one real flaw which has done more than any one other factor to make it possible for railroading the official slate into office, and has been most responsible for the logrolling which has featured the rule by clique of the past few years, is retained in the proposed constitution, which after opposition from almost every quarter, still will not give member lodges the report of the nominating committee until the morning of the convention.

The new constitution makes it possible for any member of a lodge to be named a delegate to the state convention, which is as it should be. On the other hand, it leaves untouched the question, voted for at the South Bend Convention two years ago, making it mandatory for the nominating committee to bring in two names for each of the offices of vice president. As the proposed constitution stands, the nominating committee can bring in as many names as it wishes for any office.

But the real bone of contention, that of giving the member lodges the nominating committee's report thirty days in advance has been ignored by the constitution revision committee. Member lodges still have time to register their dissatisfaction, as the State Association officers, acting in all fairness, have mailed a copy of the new constitution to every lodge for discussion.

A nomination brought in by the nominating committee has more than seventy-five per cent in its favor already. When no time is given for consideration and consultation by the member lodges, then the chance of the official slate moves up closer to 100.

There is no logical reason which would make it impossible for that nominating committee's report to be in the hands of every lodge at least thirty days in advance of the election.

Should Al Segal Be Dropped As A Columnist?

FROM TIME to time this paper gets inquiries, as witness those in this issue in The Freedom of the Press Column, on the wisdom of printing Al Segal's column, which often is accused of assimilationist tendencies in its approach to the Jewish problem. But Al Segal represents just more than his own opinion; his views are those of many, possibly even most Jews of the United States. As such not only do they deserve a hearing, but provide for those interested in preserving the values of Judaism, and who are wiser to the ways of the world, cautious reminders of the problem presented by the Segals.

Al Segal's impractical dreams are being so persistently stamped as impossibilities by the day to day turn of events, not alone by the Pelley's and the Hitler's but the Girauds and our own State Department, that, even not considering the unassailable newspaper precept of printing both sides of a question, his very, very interesting column, one of the best in all American Journalism, demands to be printed.

To be a Jew, Judaism must be cultivated, to have a Jewish Palestine, every inch of ground must be contested for. Segal and visionaries like him, deny historical experience and place their faith and their future (would that it could be so) in the hands of others, preferring to wait for Utopia, but not to work for Utopia.

Read the Rabbi's Study This Week and Every Week

ATENTION should be drawn to the occupant of this week's "Rabbi's Study" for the one simple reason that Rabbi J. Marshall Taxay speaks straight from the shoulder. Even if it were not couched in such emphatic language, the logic of the piece would in itself make it worthy of reproduction.

Occupants of "The Rabbi's Study" have spoken out quite forcefully on many issues both local, state-wide and national, confronting the Jews. These words are reaching the largest audience of Indiana Jewry ever assembled at one time. The Post is proud of the fact that its editorial board idea is working out so effectively, and urges readers to keep an eye on this new feature.

Union Must Not Associate Itself With Zionist Demand, Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron Says In His "Synagogue Bulletin" of the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation.—Furthermore the Union is primarily an American Jewish organization, as contrasted with and distinct from those organizations which often unconsciously reflect European Jewish thinking. There is a vast constituency far beyond those who are affiliated with liberal congregations which not only will find this philosophy congenial but will find its profoundest feelings and desires for itself and American Israel expressed in a brave and uncompromising assertion by the Union of its traditional position.

There are those who are trying to capture the Union for the secular and nationalist tendencies in American Jewish life. They accuse Jews who do not follow their leadership as being "traitors" and "quislings". They declare that those who do not agree with them in their extremist demands with reference to Palestine are traitors to the cause of Jews. They would mould every Jewish organization in the United States according to the pattern of their thinking.

It is not true that we do not feel the tragedy of Jews throughout the world. It is not true that we are not ready and willing to help our brethren go to Palestine or anywhere else where homes may be found for them. It is not true that we have been indifferent to Jewish suffering. It is true that we reject the philosophy of life which makes of the Jews of the world a people like any other people. It is true that we reject that thinking which declares the Jews have no homeland and that Palestine will solve our Jewish problems. It is true that we completely reject the extremist demands of the Zionist Organization for a Jewish army, unlimited Jewish immigration into Palestine under Jewish control and a Jewish state. It is true that we refuse to badger the British and our own government on this issue at a crucial moment in the war. It is true that we refuse to permit these extremists to represent themselves as speaking the voice of all American Israel. It is true that we believe these excessive demands will harm not only the Yishub in Palestine but the great Jewish community of America. It is true that we believe more moderate policies will achieve more in Palestine and everywhere else at this particular time.

The Union must not be permitted to associate itself, even by implication, with extremist Zionist demands. We dare not permit ourselves to sacrifice basic principles, endangering the community in Palestine and in America, by our compromises.

recent poll, plumped for a free registration. This plan has many loopholes, such as a free registration not indicating the substantial allegiance that a paid referendum would indicate. And another side of the situation is that the Committee for a Jewish Army of Stateless and Palestinian Jews might conduct such a referendum on its own at any moment, and beat the Z.O.A. to the gun.

Several weeks ago The Indiana Catholic and Record published a news story datelined New York to eliminate from the text books to eliminate from the text books of the nation's schools, passages which are both historically inaccurate and at the same time tend to breed anti-Semitism, was described by the Most Rev. Francis A. McIntyre, Auxiliary Bishop of New York as "a new form of religious persecution." The article goes on to say:

"This movement proposes to expunge from school textbooks, from catechisms and Bible histories prophetic and historical references, not because they are untrue or unfounded in Scripture, but because today they are construed as having an anti-Semitic implication," said Bishop McIntyre. "It would seem that the object of this movement is to suppress mention of the Crucifixion of Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ and the attending circumstances, but the smoke screen of this activity is opposition to anti-Semitism."

The movement has failed to gain the support of outstanding Jewish groups such as the American Jewish Committee and the Independent Order of the B'rith Abraham.

I could see where the misunderstanding had arisen, and I could see where the Catholic Clergy were interpreting this as according to the way in which they looked at the idea. I didn't quite understand why the American Jewish Committee was objecting to the movement, unless there was something about the method of procedure with which they disagreed. Then last week, in the bulletin of Temple Beth Israel of Chicago, I noticed the sermon subject of Rabbi S. Felix Mendelsohn—"The Truth About the Textbook Commission." In an explanatory paragraph, Rabbi Mendelsohn wrote:

Recently much publicity was given in the press to a movement whose aim is to eliminate anti-Jewish references from Christian textbooks. A number of us have been asked to contribute to the committee sponsoring the project. What should be our attitude to the whole idea?

Now I wonder what this is all about? Will someone explain please?

SEGAL'S PROGRAM WOULD MAKE PALESTINE PROJECT A FARCE

To the editor,

What I like particularly is your frankness and forthrightness. Your editorial a week or so ago denouncing many Anglo-Jewish weeklies for reprinting "canned" editorials was particularly worth while.

In the current issue you have a lengthy discussion of Zionism by Al Segal who is a vehement and a bitter anti-Zionist. The program which he describes and which he claims to be the program of the Ihud exists only in his imagination. Dr. Magnes has actually agreed, in order to appease the Arabs, to suspend immigration and to reduce the Jews to a permanent minority in the land. This would make the entire Palestine project a farce.

TELLS ABOUT AL SEGAL AND HIS DE JUDAINE TEST TUBE COMPARISON

To the editor,

For some time now I have enjoyed reading your publication. I am refreshed both by your interesting and timely reports of the Jewish scene and by your editorials, in which you so vigorously support everything worthwhile in Jewish life.

Somehow, your subscription to Mr. Al Segal's column seems to be out of tune with the otherwise so affirmative Jewish policy of your publication. I remember Al Segal's "Plain Talk" in the American Israelite only too well from my student days in Cincinnati, and I cannot help but recall his rather negative and frequently un-Jewish attitude manifest in those articles. In fact, I was present when Mr. Segal addressed a group of Jewish students on the campus of the University of Cincinnati. In order to make his message more impressive, he brought along a little glass tube, which according to him contained a medication called De-Judaine. De-Judaization seemed to him the panacea for all Jewish ills at that time. If I am not very much mistaken, a column bearing the same message appeared in the Jewish press under his name the following week.

To my regret, I see that the former dispenser of De-Judaine has now found the solution that is to bring PEACE FOR ZION. The one who not so long ago suggested to give up Judaism and Jewishness altogether, has now—at least to his own satisfaction—become an expert not only on Zionism, but also on the most complicated problems of the Near East and its reconstruction in the Post War World. In fact, he has become so well versed in the art of prophecy that he knows it for a fact that Great Britain will never grant a Jewish state in Palestine.

No, I disagree with Mr. Segal's Zionist friend who called him a Fascist and other unpleasant names. Mr. Segal is only one of many Jewish individuals without much knowledge on things Jewish, without much insight into Jewish problems, let alone the questions concerning Zionism. The only difference between him and the many others of his kind is that he prefers to think of himself as a "more or less responsible columnist."

Dr. Magnes' efforts in connection with Ichud may be laudable or contemptible. The fact is, that as far as I know, he has not as yet succeeded in obtaining interest or cooperation from any responsible Arab group. Apparently, the suggested bi-national state is quite as reprehensible to Fascists minded Arab leadership as the Jewish state. Besides, Dr. Magnes has no assurance that in such a bi-national state "continuation of immigration" would be permitted by the Arab majority in control. It seems much more probable that under such conditions "fixation of the Yishub as a permanent minority" would be inevitable.

JEWISH CHAPLAIN AT FRONT HAS HARD JOB
BUT NO COMPLAINTS; PLANS FOR PASSOVER

Editor's Note: The following letter was received by the Jewish Welfare Board from one of the Jewish chaplains stationed at the front lines. For military reasons the exact location cannot be named. It reveals that even in the crude fox holes of this war, plans are being made for Jewish soldiers to observe the Passover under the most trying conditions. The religious materials for this and all other Passover observances throughout the world where Jewish soldiers are stationed are supplied by the National Jewish Welfare Board which is the recognized agency of the War and Navy Departments to tend to the religious and spiritual needs of all Jews in the armed forces.

"I received your most welcome letter of Dec. 11, yesterday, and want to thank you very much for it. Your letters are a great source of inspiration to me—living here on my belly in my pup tent which is dug into a hill—and I hope this will be a legible and coherent note. I meant to write sooner but you know that I was ordered back here just before they left for this great mission. We've continued for days and days in rain, mountains, black-out, skirmishes, fox-holes, until about 10 days ago. Since we have taken up a position which gives us a bit of settlement, though it is in dugouts hidden in hills. Transportation has been at an awful minimum and it was almost impossible for me to get around to the units. I hitched rides and rode the courier whenever possible and got over the Chanukah holiday pretty thoroughly. Had some grand services in the local synagogue where civilians attended as well as soldiers, and the services were most touching. At least here I am with one regiment and when we are at rest I can get to all the men and of course under combat conditions I only have my one battalion. I'm hoping that by Passover we'll at least be in ——— would that it could be in Berlin—and then I figure the division will catch up and I am going to shake the African dust sky high to have the biggest Passover celebration our men and the British Jewish soldiers have ever seen. The only trouble is that when the Jerry's leave a city I don't think they leave much behind—not from the one or two small towns I have already seen.

"I feel so badly that I am unable to get around very much. I must wait for moments when I can be of service—but the compensations lie in the fact that those moments are so precious both to the men and to me. When we left our staying areas on two occasions to go up front, I had men, gun on shoulder and ready to go—make their way to me one by one, Jew and Christian alike—to say goodbye, to ask for my blessing and just for a word

Los Angeles Drops
Rule Against Press
In Annual Drive

Special

LOS ANGELES—For the first time in the history of the local Jewish community, news of the annual United Jewish Welfare Fund Drive, will appear in the daily press as the result of a decision of the Jewish Community Council.

Referring to the new move, The B'nai B'rith Messenger, local Anglo-Jewish publication declares:

"In this step, it is important to note, a change in the thinking of the leadership in Los Angeles is being evidenced. We believe this trend is all to the good. Not only will the results of the campaign prove the value of using the newspapers as a medium, but we will reap the added benefit of letting non-Jews know that year in and year out, we are carrying on activities which are an asset to the entire community; that in addition to our already large contributions to the war causes directly, and to various other non-sectarian charitable causes, we have the further task of caring for our stricken brethren abroad, and our strictly personal problems at home."

Sara's Column

By SARA MESSING STERN

THE LATE RABBI MEYER WISE, the anniversary of whose birth and passing was observed this week in all liberal pulpits, dedicated the Temple at Tenth and Delaware Sts. My father loved him for his scholarship, his breadth of vision, his intense love and knowledge of Judaism, the warmth of his personality and his keen sense of humor. The "Deborah" a German paper he published carried seventy-seven years ago the advertisement of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation for a Rabbi. My father answered that advertisement, was accepted and came to Indianapolis as the Rabbi of the Market Street Temple. Father made it one of his joys to go to Cincinnati to see Rabbi Wise. Their friendship dated from that time. I can visualize Rabbi Wise in our pulpit on dedication day, can recall his stirring appeal for "Light" as he closed his dedication sermon. The late Prof. John Lippman, director of the choir, father of Mrs. Phillip Efroymsen, composed a special number for the occasion called, "Let There Be Light," and as the choir sang it at sunset all the lights in the Temple were turned on. What a thrilling event that dedication was.

THE THREE HUNDRED OR MORE music lovers who heard Evelyn Borofsky Roskin in an organ recital at Beth El Zedeck Temple last Sunday afternoon from 4 to 5, recognized in her an artist in every sense of the word. Lilli Neurath, cellist of the Indianapolis Symphony and Cantor Myro Glass, baritone, helped her make this hour "A quietness of soul" in the House of God. Thank you Beth El Zedeck Congregation for inviting the community to share this privilege each Sunday afternoon with you.

A QUEER COINCIDENCE! Seeing Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath's likeness in last week's issue of the Post reminded me of it. Next to me on a bus recently, a dear little, YOUNG-ELDERLY woman, clear eyed and smiling, said without preliminaries—I must look like a responsive sort—"I just got back from Colorado. Would have been a bit lonesome and surely wouldn't have seen things if it hadn't been for the kindest woman I ever knew. She's a Jewess. I'm a Christian. We got along fine. Can that woman make pretty things! And knit! You know her son is a Rabbi—that's a Jewish minister—in Toronto, Canada. And oh, she told me to look up a dear friend here in Indianapolis. But I forgot her name. I'd remember it if I ever heard it. Her father was a Rabbi here. She used to live near my friend in Chicago. They both belonged to Emmanuel Temple and the Rabbi there, name of Felix Levy, was my friend's son's teacher. He was raised in his congregation. Wonder if you know anyone here whose father was a Rabbi. My friend's name is Eisendrath, Mrs. Clara Eisendrath." I gave a gasp and stated my name. A radiant smile lighted up her face. "God's direction," she said. But she got off the bus then. Clara Eisendrath, write me her name and address. I like her!

SO JUNE SPIEGAL, daughter of Mrs. Charles Spiegel and Mr. Spiegel of Anderson, Ind., after her marriage, May 23, in Anderson to Charles Frisch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Frisch, 5641 Guilford Ave., will live in Indianapolis! ## Jewish Army Group Hurls Libel Threat

NEW YORK—Declaring that it would no longer remain silent while being libeled in the Anglo-Jewish press, the Committee for a Jewish Army of Stateless and Palestinian Jews, this week threatened that such attacks "in the future will be met by appropriate action from our legal committee."

"During the past month there has been in progress," declared the letter which was mailed to every Anglo-Jewish publication in the United States, "in the Anglo-Jewish press and in the syndicated columns carried by this press, a campaign of villification. In many cases these aspersions and calumny cast upon us, with their natural insinuations and innuendos, constitute prima facie libel against the Committee," the letter charges.

Eisendrath To Speak On a "Message of Israel"

The "Message of Israel" hour, broadcast over the Blue Network from 7:30 to 8 CWT each Saturday, will feature Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath during April. On April 3 he will speak on "Not by Might Alone," on April 10, on "What Besides Victory?," on April 17 on "Freedom—For What?," and on April 24, on "Where Jew and Christian Meet."

Rabbi Eisendrath was recently elected director of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations for the duration of the war.

Believe Council Issue To Be Fought Out at Union Meet

(See a more complete quotation of Rabbi Lazaron's article in the "Current Comment" section on page 6.)

Special

NEW YORK—That the battle between the Council for American Judaism and the supporters of Zionism may be fought on at the Biennial Council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations here today through Sunday was indicated in a leading article by Rabbi Morris Lazaron in his "Synagogue Bulletin."

Declaring that, "There are those who are trying to capture the Union for the secular and nationalist tendencies in American Jewish life," the article, which is signed by Rabbi Lazaron, charged that the Zionist demands "will harm not only the Yishub in Palestine but the great Jewish community of America." At another point the article said, "We recognized the right of Jews who differ from us not only to express but to propagandize for their point of view. But this is not for the Union."

The fight which probably will develop here, was originally scheduled for the meeting of the Central Conference of American Rabbis set for June in this city, following a declaration by Rabbi James G. Heller, president of the group, that he would present recommendations on the question at that time.

But Rabbi Lazaron's statement, and the fact that the Council for American Judaism has urged all its 90 or so members to attend the Biennial Council opening today, indicates what is in store for the sessions in the next three days.

son folks, especially your active Sisterhood, a mighty fine person, too, in Mrs. Daniel Rosenbaum. She stole a march on us. With her sister, Jess Wormser, her niece Mrs. Samuel Rapkin and husband and Mr. Rosenbaum's sister, Mrs. Gertrude Kahn and daughter Helene of Cincinnati present, she was quietly married by Rabbi Maurice Feuerlicht in his study, March 15. They will soon be back in Anderson from their month in Mexico. I bespeak for this good friend of mine, the same cordial kindness you have always shown to me.

HANNAH LEAH MILLER, daughter of Mrs. Jennie Miller, and the late Major Donald Lee Miller, has joined the Woman's Auxiliary Corps and reports to the Second Training Center at Daytona, Fla., Tuesday. When I asked Hannah Leah how she happened to "join up" she answered, "It is in my blood. It is the patriotism of my parents and their example. My father, who passed away 17 years ago, was a major in the Medical Corps during the first World War, and served overseas 18 months with the A.E.F., was in the 5th King's Liverpool Regiment and was cited with the British Military Cross." There is only one other in Indiana. Hannah Leah is a former president of Junior Hadassah here.

CHAPLAIN GOODE, 30 years old, the first Rabbi to lose his life in this World War, was Rabbi of Sinai Temple, Marion Ind., 1936-1937. He has been reported lost in the north Atlantic. Another name added to those previously mentioned here, whom Indiana helped as a proving ground for greater service.

WHEN CHAPLAIN WHITE of the Indiana Reformatory at Pendleton extended to Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt of the Temple, Delaware and Tenth streets, the invitation to address his boys last Sunday at chapel services, he added, "It will interest you to learn that for several years there has been no Jewish boy in this Reformatory." We hope the omission will continue through the years.

BELATED CONGRATULATIONS to Mrs. Jack Goodman, national director, and Mrs. Shoolem Ettinger, local president of Hadassah, on their birthday, March 25. I hope you keep up the fine work you are both doing.

Our Film Folks

Unless Specifically Stated, All Persons mentioned Are Jewish.
(c) 1943, Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

By HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD—Does the public realize that the film industry is the only industry in this entire country making direct contribution to the war effort without profit? As one example, Warners are having a record-breaking boom in their non-profit departments. They are producing "This Is the Army," all profits of which go to the Army Relief Society; they are distributing Zanuck's "At the Front in North Africa," they have in work several hundred training films, numerous defense films and special patriotic subjects.

Martha Raye... on that African trek... was chevroned an "Honorary Captain"... the only woman to be so honored by the U. S. Army. She covered 100,000 miles by air and 50,000 on wheels, autos, jeeps, etc. Her program consisted of four shows a day of one hour and 40 minutes each. She went through air raids, mud and sand, and even a plane fight.

Mervyn LeRoy will pilot the Hollywood Red Cross Caravan. Danny Kaye will be m.c. with his wife, Sylvia Fine, writing special material for him. The show, in a campaign for Red Cross funds, will visit four eastern cities. First stop, Madison Square Garden.

The other p.m. Los Angeles had an air raid alert. Sirens screamed... studio employees quickly headed for the nearest shelters. The players on the "Russia" set folded up their make-up kits... filed out. "No, no!" yelled Director Ratoff, fumbling the pages of the script. "It says here... the air raid comes on page 43!"

George Tobias named his dog Timoshenko because he never quit a fight. Then he got to labeling the other animals on his ranch. One day he found a skunk prowling around... couldn't decide whether to call him "Hitler" or "Tojo", but when he saw it was just a little skunk, he called him "Mussolini."

Troopers and Troopers: Producer Maurice King of the King Brothers left for the San Diego induction center. He'll be a private in the Marines.

Sally Eilers, though inactive foots the footlights for USO.

Gertrude Niesen, currently acting for USO in London, returns soon to Movietown to play the part of a USO entertainer in a film musical.

Joan Blondell just returned from a camp tour of Oklahoma and Texas.

For three months Lillian Hellman has been delving in all the Russian books and newspapers available to make her story, "The North Star," authentic. It deals with the 48 hours before the Nazi invasion of the Ukraine on June 22, 1941. Everything must be accurate... what kind of crops were growing... what was the weather, what were the people doing, etc. Sam Goldwyn has elaborate plans for the advertising campaign of the picture. When someone opined that it should be a big money-maker, Sam shrugged, "Who cares about money? I just want a hundred and thirty million people in America to see it—that's all!" And Sam meant exactly that.

Palestine Rabbis Strike For Higher Allowances

Special
TEL AVIV — More than 120 rabbis and other employees of the Jewish religious administration this week called a two-hour "token strike" demanding higher living allowances in view of the sharp increase in the cost of living in Palestine. The "strikers" assembled in the office of the Chief Rabbinate where they conducted a sit-down strike for two hours. They pointed out that while some employees of the Jewish community have been given salary increases to meet the higher prices on basic commodities, those serving in the religious department of the community had been neglected.

Tournament, Reunion Planned at Kirshbaum

A ping-pong tournament to be held at 8 p. m. Saturday, April 10 and a day-camp reunion to be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, April 11 will be features of the next week end at Kirshbaum Center. The tournament, to be held in the newly decorated and equipped game-room at the center, will be open to members and non-members, as well as servicemen. The day camp reunion program will include games and prizes, crafts and refreshments, and may be attended by non-members for a 15-cent fee, and by members and day-camp attendants.

DISASTER TO JEWRY MATCHED BY HAVOC WITHIN JEWRY. RABBI TAXAY SAYS

By DR. J. MARSHALL TAXAY

RUSSIA'S commercial treaty with the United States was abrogated in 1912. America would not permit that her Jewish citizens be singled out for discrimination. The passports of American Jews were not recognized by the Tsarist regime. America's retort was treaty cancellation. This was in 1912.

Americans, many of them Jews, were mowed down by gunfire in landing on North African soil. The men who fired the shots are now part of the administration. Jews are in concentration camps in Algiers over which flies the American flag. The writer of the Vichy anti-Jewish laws is rushed by the American State Department from the Argentine to become part of the Giraud government. Giraud disfranchises Jews who whose grandfathers were citizens, before Giraud was even born. Official America becomes Giraud's leading sponsor. This is 1943.

The retreat of Jewish rights, the set-back of Jewish status is marked by these dates: 1912, 1943.

The cataclysm of European Jewry is too agonizing to rehearse.

In such a time the social student would expect Jewish mutual understanding, sympathy, solidarity. The contrary greets him. It is trite: the disaster to Jewry is matched by havoc within Jewry.

Civic protective groups cannot be federated because personal, vested interests accord themselves priority. The welfare of an office staff transcends that of Israel. Campaign fund machinery becomes a surrogate, ersatz, for Israel's need.

Wilson's self-determination call awakened little peoples. One delegate spoke for the Pontus on the Euxine Sea with documentary pleas to restore the kingdom of Mithradates the Great, destroyed in 47 b. c. e. He represented a united group. American Jewry, with its brethren in the maw of Moloch, is debating whether it be Conference or Assembly. Verbiage is crowned. It becomes substitute, ersatz, for Israel's aid.

March, 1944, may slam the door of Palestine in Jewry's face. Arab princelings sniff booty in the wind. Egypt asks accounting of the words of our congressmen favoring the Homeland. And this hour is chosen by teachers of Judaism to rehash the metaphysical of nationhood. A pernicious Pilpul is invited: ersatz for Israel's weal.

Must Zangwill cry again? "Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God,

The Lord is One; But thy people is dual, And so undone."

The clock of history is sounding alarm. American Jewry must act its age. The world's largest Jewish body must exorcise chaos. Democratic elections of Jewish deputies is the compelling answer. That alone can uproot the Fuehrers of our faith. When ersatz goes, Israel will come into its own.

The next regular meeting of the United Hebrew Congregation Ladies' Auxiliary, originally scheduled for Wednesday, April 7, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday, April 5 in the vestry room of the shul.

HYMIE EPSTEIN "PRETTY BUSY": KILLED BY JAPS AS HE CARES FOR WOUNDED

Editor's Note—Hymie Epstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Epstein of Omaha, was killed in action in the southwest Pacific December 1.

In the following article, George Weller, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, recounts the last 12 hours of Pvt. Epstein's life as told by his major.

With the American Troops near Sanananda, Jan. 19—"He was one swell little guy, that Hymie."

That's all his company will say about Hyman Epstein. They are still in line and living in water-filled mudholes amidst sniping. They are fighting off creeping fever as well as Japanese sharpshooters. But when they mention Hyman's name among those who have gone, there is a special tightening around the mouth and a vagueness of the eyes as they look away.

"In war I guess the best go first," says Maj. Bert Zeff of Grand Rapids, who has fought in two wars. "That kid was the best."

This is the last 12 hours of Hymie Epstein's life as Zeff tells it.

We were sent out to carry rations to one of our units, cut off in the forest ahead of us. They had several dead and a number of wounded.

"Epstein was a medical aide. Medical aides are forbidden by the Geneva convention to bear arms. Casualties among their ranks have been as high or higher

20 YEARS AGO

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

ROME — The Italian government has taken action to combat the growing wave of anti-Semitism. A government committee has announced that it will hold a contest and award prizes for the best papers demonstrating the fallacy of anti-Semitism.

VIENNA — The Hakenkreuzler Organization issued a warning threatening the Jews in Austria with "a blood-bath" if the Socialists attempt to interfere with their projected military maneuvers. They also threaten that they will press for the deportation of all the Jews to Palestine. The group is alarmed by the demand of the Allied governments that the Austrian authorities disband the organization and deport its "foreign agitators." This would strike a hard blow at the Hakenkreuzlers, since most of their leaders come from the ranks of Adolph Hitler's Bavarian Fascists.

WARSAW — Squads of infantry and cavalry are patrolling the Jewish quarter here following the recent outbreak of anti-Semitic riots, during which many persons were injured and property valued at half a billion marks destroyed. Premier Wladyslaw Sikorski assured Jewish deputies that the government will not tolerate a repetition of the disturbances and will punish the rioters. Premier Sikorski, however, has permitted the anti-Semitic party, "Roswoj," to resume its activities.

JERUSALEM — Palestine Jews are incensed at having been barred from the Wailing Wall on Passover because of an anti-Zionist Arab procession. Gov. Ronald Storrs denies responsibility for the order, stating that it was issued by a subordinate official.

BERLIN — The Old Testament has been "purged" of its Jewish names and can now be read by even a Bavarian Fascist without the slightest possibility of infection, as the result of the efforts of the German nationalist, anti-Semitic author, Heinrich Lhotzky.

than among the fighting troops because when the Japs wound a man with sniping, they do not finish him off but wait for the company aide man to come, and then get both.

"The Japs must have heard us creeping along because they moved a machine gun across our line of crawl. Then they got another there and had two converging lanes of fire directed upon our mudholes.

"Then they sent snipers around the sides so they could pick us off where we were if we stopped moving. But we had to stop because it was getting dark and we could not see where we were going. And they opened fire on us."

"Epstein, a small slight youngster from Omaha, was lying at the major's side about three feet away to the right. Suddenly, a man about eight feet ahead was hit in the neck by a machine gun bullet.

"Both Epstein and myself saw him get it. But the Japs knew we were all there and kept their fire right in that spot. You could see bullets hitting all around. I would not order anyone to go out into that fire to get that man. I could not. It was just throwing one life after another.

"But this little kid, he crawled right from the mud to the wounded man who lies on his back. Epstein gets out his sulfanilamide powder and bandages and, himself lying on his back, binds the wounded man's neck. Then he crawls back with bullets all around him."

"Just before darkness came down—with Jap snipers firing from the sides and working around behind, while the machine guns continued from in front trying to probe out the Americans in the mudholes—another man was hit in the head. Without any hesitation out crawls that kid again with his packet, gets to the man, rolls over and, lying on his back, binds up his head and gives the man sulfanilamide. I could not understand how he ever got back that time. They simply poured fire around him. But he did get back."

"You could hear the men talking all night. 'Did you see what little Epstein did?' they would say. Word had gone the whole length of the line in whispers. Then at dawn, the Japs began to get more accurate with their fire. A man over on the left was hit and word came that a medic was needed. Epstein crawled down the line. Five minutes later word was passed up the line that he was dead. How they had finally got him was this:

"There was a badly wounded guy out there with fire all around him. Epstein went out and just got him fixed. Then the Japs put in everything they had. Epstein could have crawled back, but he chose to stick until he finished the job. He stayed a little too long.

"What I will always remember was the wounded man when he dragged himself in. It's not often you hear a soldier crying and he was a tough baby himself, but he was crying, crying like anything as he reached us. He kept saying between sobs, 'Somebody's gotta go out there and take care of Epstein. Epstein's bleeding to death. Somebody's quick gotta go out and get Epstein.' Of course he was delirious. We could see that Epstein was already dead. But even in delirium and with his severe wound that guy felt worse about Epstein than himself.

"I've seen a lot of men do things out there, in the swamp that never would be believed. We buried the man he tried to save by moonlight the next night and we buried Epstein by day as we waded back through the forest. You never know who is going to be a good soldier and who isn't. But when they are handing honors around.

By G. M. C.

Norman Isaacs and Rowland Allen will occupy the pulpit tonight at the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, as part two of a three-sermon series on Reform Judaism, and I suspect the services will be quite interesting. In connection with Norman, who has done a major share of the work in the local Jewish community in the past two years, the story is told that his father, the late Rufus Isaacs, in Norman's younger days, used to worry over his son's interests. Little did he know that Norman would become associated with the Scripps-Howard chain of newspapers, if you get what I mean.

As to Rowland Allen, I have never met him, but I have heard a great deal about him from some of my Jewish friends (you see I have them too), and this before his recent ouster by the legislature in collusion with Governor Schricker from the Merit Board, which caused me to wonder, and even almost to comment at the time, why no one came to his side while he was under attack. As highly regarded as Mr. Allen was by some of the people who talked to me, I couldn't understand why the newspapers were not deluged with letters in his behalf, and even some form of a protest movement organized to fight the Governor's action.

I had occasion after services last Friday night to go back upstairs into the then darkened synagogue after my topcoat, and if you think you have lost your religion, you might try this experience. Over the Ark glowed the Nair Tomid, the eternal light, and on either side, the only other light, was the dull gleam from the Yahrzeit tablets. Here and there as the feeble rays of light struck the highspots, that shown softly in the darkness, and the entire eerie feeling was one of supernaturalness. I didn't waste much time in the synagogue, and when I got home I remember giving my son a lecture on not being afraid of the dark, because his daddy went in the dark all the night. (note to typesetter: This should not read, "his daddy WAS in the dark all the time,,).

Several weeks ago I reprinted in "The Current Comment" section a short few paragraphs from the bulletin of the Rabbi Irving A. Weingart's B'nai Jacob Congregation in Fort Wayne, in which the thought was emphasized that Judaism must concern itself with religion, as in distinction to matters of economics and politics. Rabbi Sydney K. Mossman, of Hammond in "The Rabbi's Study" the following week, disagreed with the remarks I made, and this week Rabbi Weingart writes to tell me that the paragraphs were part of a sermon, but you can read what he says for yourself:

As to your comment in your column on my previous editorial entitled "Secularized Judaism," may I inform you that it was part of a lengthy sermon discussion and I never intended that rabbis limit themselves exclusively to religious discus-

MRS. ROOSEVELT STUDYING REFUGEE PROBLEMS

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is devoting a good deal of her spare time—of which she unfortunately has very little—to studying the Jewish refugee problem. . . . That $300,000 bomber bought with the proceeds of War Bonds sales to refugees in a campaign launched some months ago is part of the U. S. Air Force now. . . . It has been named "The Loyalty". . . . The leader of the "Free" Hungarian movement in this country is none other than Tibor Eckhardt, we are sorry to say. . . . If your memory is short, let us remind you that Eckhardt is the gentleman who once organized the anti-Semitic "Awakening Hungarians". . . . He is cast in the same mold as the two Ottos—Otto von Hapsburg and Otto Strasser—who are grooming themselves to lead, respectively, the "Free" Austrians and the "Free" Germans".

AMONG THE RABBIS

Not enough attention was paid to the heroic death of Rabbi Alex D. Goode, a young chaplain who went down with his men on a transport ship in the North Atlantic. . . . Goode was the first Jewish chaplain to lose his life in this war. . . . If you missed last week's issue of The Congress Weekly, make a point of getting a copy. . . . The article by Dr. Joshua Bloch, chief of the Jewish Department of the New York Public Library, is very much worth your while reading, for it will be a topic of conversation for quite some time to come. . . . Congratulations to Robert E. Goldberg, a student at the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati, for his splendid editorial in the March issue of the students' monthly. . . . The editorial, entitled "United We Speak," pleads with the student body of the College to petition Congress "to discontinue the undemocratic and treacherous activity of the Dies Committee". . . . The future rabbis are urged to speak out against the Dies activities. . . . The advice is good, and might be followed by more of the rabbis now active throughout the country.

LITVINOV TO BE RECALLED?

Rumor has it that Maxim Litvinov will be recalled to Russia before long for an important domestic job. . . . Herman Shulman of the Zionist Emergency Committee, a young man of imagination and energy, is putting new life into that body. . . . Joseph Brainin and Kenneth Leslie have resigned from the Executive Council of the Committee for a Jewish Army. . . . This in protest against that recent irresponsible advertisement on the Roumanian "bargain sale" of Jews. . . . The new book that Franz Werfel is writing will deal with life in Poland after the Nazi invasion. . . . Sholem Asch's trilogy "The Three Cities" has just been republished in a single volume. . . . If you have no copy of this Asch masterpiece, now's your chance to get one. . . . But hurry, as the edition is limited to 25,000 copies. . . . When Emanuel List, the Metropolitan Opera Company's famous basso, was in his early teens and confronted with the need of earning his living, he became a tailor, and even registered an original design for a woman's riding habit with the Vienna Tailors' Guild

AL SEGAL Speaks On STORY OF TEN DOLLARS

MY FRIEND, Cantor Emil Rosen, tells me a story about Samuel and David who were brothers and very poor and very decent gentlemen. I am glad I got a story of decent gentlemen in a time when the deeds of scoundrels make the headlines in the daily press. (Though I am happy to believe it won't be long now before the scoundrels get what's coming to them in accordance with the ordinations of moral law.)

Yes, Samuel had found a ten dollar bill on the street and if you knew how poor Samuel was you would understand what it meant to him to find ten dollars. The winter was not far off and Samuel's children were without any shoes.

So when he found the ten-dollar bill he raised his eyes to heaven and thanked God from whom all blessings flow. He had been walking along with head bowed, thinking about his children's bare feet, and right under his nose the ten dollar bill appeared. Certainly, it looked like something of God's own doing.

Yet he felt troubled, too. Those ten dollars surely must have belonged to somebody, perhaps another poor man who must be deeply hurt to have lost so much money. He feared that if with this money he bought shoes for his children their feet would ache with the pain of the one who had lost it and was grieving for it.

Samuel consulted the page in the newspaper where people report things they have lost. When, after several days, he found no one reporting the loss of ten dollars, his conscience became content. It was plain that the loser wasn't feeling hurt enough by his loss to give out an alarm over it. He was probably a millionaire to whom a ten-dollar bill was no more than a scrap of paper that blows away. How exquisitely just was the doing of God who causes, not a poor man's ten dollars, but a millionaire's to fall where he, Samuel, could find it that he might buy shoes for his children.

The days still were warm enough for his children to run barefoot and so there was no need for him to buy their shoes at once. If he waited a week the shoes might last that much longer into the winter.

Samuel looked about for a safe place to keep the money. And what could be a safer place than the Holy Book of the Torah which was God's own book, you might say. He placed the ten dollar bill in Exodus in the part where it says, "Thou shalt not steal."

The same day his brother David fell into deepest trouble. It had been one trouble after another for him, troubles running in a chain, as is the way of a poor man's troubles. Because David was so poor there never was enough to eat in his house and because there wasn't enough to eat there was a deficiency of vitamins and because of vitamins being scarce, an ordinary cold could grow into a great calamity like pneumonia. So it goes.

David's wife had become that sick and David was without any money and didn't know which way to turn to get any, and he hurried to his brother Samuel's house to consult with him. Samuel hadn't any talent for financial advice but then he might know somebody who out of his goodness could give a few dollars.

Samuel wasn't home and David sat down to wait and while he waited his eyes fell on the Holy Book in the reading of which he always had found comfort. He opened it at the page of the Ten Commandments where the ten dollar bill lay and where it was specifically said, "Thou shalt not steal."

This looked at first like a revelation of God, presenting him, in his great extremity, with ten dollars out of His own book. But then David was realist enough to understand that a ten dollar bill is a matter of earthly business and he couldn't doubt that it was placed in the book by his brother Samuel.

Even as he pondered upon the matter, David's eyes took in the Commandment "Thou shalt not steal." This hand withdrew from the money as if it had been slapped. He leafed through the Holy Book and came to Leviticus 16 where something is said about the way to deal with strangers. . . . "The stranger that sojourneth with you shall be unto you as the home-born among you, and thou shalt love him as thyself."

David thought that if a mere stranger is to be loved as one's self, his own brother Samuel surely should love him that much. And if he loved him that much Samuel would forgive him for taking the ten dollars in this terrible hour of his wife's sickness. God and Samuel would understand. God had written, "Thou shalt not steal," but He had also written, "Thou shalt love him as thyself." God would forgive him for the sake of brotherly love.

Yet when David had gone a distance with the ten dollar bill his conscience overtook him and spoke sternly: "Yes, David, but brotherly love should go both ways. Fifty-fifty, David! The brotherly love of Samuel doubtless will forgive you, but your own brotherly love should have told you to take only half the ten dollars and leave the other half with your brother Samuel. Brotherly love should always be fifty-fifty, David."

David changed the ten dollar bill to a pair of fives, hurried back to Samuel's house and placed a five dollar bill in the Holy Book. He placed it at Leviticus where it says: "Thou shalt love him as thyself."

*****

When Samuel came home and found the ten-dollar bill changed to a five in the Holy Book he was at first deeply moved to think of the ways of God who gives and also takes away. But when his wife told him that his brother David had been there in deep distress and had had the book in his hands and, after leaving, had returned and taken up the book again, Samuel understood the whole thing.

He understood it even more clearly when he read from the pages of Leviticus on which the five dollar bill lay: "Thou shalt love him as thyself."

Samuel's conscience scolded him severely: "How selfish you were, Samuel, to have thought of keeping all the ten dollars. You should have divided it with David in the first place, since he is as poor as you."

As I hear from Cantor Rosen, Samuel hurried to David's house to ask to be forgiven for not dividing with him the ten dollars at the time he found the money. (Cantor Rosen got the story by hearsay, too.)

sions. What I had in mind was that even in discussing secular problems, Jewish references should be alluded to and that the discussion be kept within the framework of Jewish learning; giving as well the Jewish approach to some of the vexing problems of today. Jews must be informed that Judaism is not merely a Synagogue worship institution, but that it also has an approach and a program for social, political, and economic amelioration of the lot of all men.

Charles W. Morris of Louisville, chairman of the Fifth Service Command of the JWB who will be in charge of the meeting Sunday called to organize a State Jewish Welfare Board Committee, has a brother Jack Morris, who has written many stories for magazines, including most recently, "Esquire." Jack Morris is also a literary agent, and he has sent me a brochure announcing the publication of "Undercover" by E. P. Dutton and Co. under his auspices. For four years, according to the brochure, the author, John Roy Carlson was a member of the Nazi-fascist American organizations and part of the book is devoted to visits to Indianapolis while in the employ of one of these organizations. That should make interesting reading, and I would like to be able to publish that part of the book, if I can get Jack's and the publisher's permissions.

Here's a suggestion to B'nai B'rith for a bang-up program for its next meeting. How about a debate on the Jewish army question. That would really draw an attendance, and possibly two out-of-town speakers, although not necessarily so, should be secured to present the opposite sides of the questions. I suggest Rabbi Milton Greenwald and Rabbi J. Marshall Taxay, but whoever the speakers, this column would guarantee a capacity attendance.

COMPLAINT DEPARTMENT
—Aaron Unger says he used to be able to sit down after supper

Friday evening and read through the 8-page Jewish Post, but now with the enlarged size, he can't encompass it all before going off to synagogue services.
